

Maine Township Administration Building
1700 Ballard Road, Park Ridge, IL

Client: Township of Maine
Architect: Architectural Enterprises
Role: General Contractor

International Contractors, Inc. served as the General Contractor for the expansion and remodel of this 10,000 SF town hall originally designed by Frank Lloyd Wright's son as a church.

Maintaining the design theme of the original construction, ICI restored exposed glue laminate beams in administrative offices and the township's equipment storage facility.

The project had a unique soil condition challenge, as it was located over a dried up creek bed.

Extensive excavation beyond the normal level had to be undertaken and the entire basement, including the floor, received membrane water-proofing.

The addition copied from the original design elements, suggesting a vessel in motion.

"..We are extremely happy with the building," said Township Supervisor, Mark Thompson. "The workmanship is excellent. The personnel from International Contractors whom we worked with were all outstanding."
