

Rob Roy Clubhouse
505 East Camp McDonald Road, Prospect Heights, IL

Client: River Trails Park District
Architect: Ralph Burke Associates
Role: General Contractor

River Trails Park District contracted International Contractors, Inc. to construct a new 6,800 SF clubhouse at Rob Roy Golf Club in Prospect Heights, Illinois.

Before construction on the new clubhouse could begin, ICI had to demolish the existing clubhouse. Once demolition was completed and the site was ready for construction, ICI's team went to work constructing the new clubhouse.

The new clubhouse featured a restaurant and bar area, banquet rooms, administrative offices, pro shop, locker rooms and a large outdoor deck overlooking the course. Site work included the expansion of the golf course parking lot.

The restaurant and bar area consisted of vaulted ceilings with tongue and groove oak decking.

All construction was completed in time for the clubhouse and course to be operational for the summer golf season.
